

Quality Home Builder

Turn your yard into an Oasis

To Whom It May Concern,

Our construction company has used the consulting services of John Romanous and Associates, Structural and Hydraulic Engineers, of Hurstville, for several years

I have known John and have dealt extensively with him and his company on many housing and swimming pool projects for the past 6 years. During that time I have built some challenging homes and particularly swimming pools from both a building and engineering perspective. John has always been willing to meet the challenge and keen to find the appropriate solution for any structural problem we may encounter on our projects. I have found him to be very professional and positive, his designs and documentation are clear and concise.

John is also a person who cares about the job at hand and as a result leaves nothing to chance but ensures that his design addresses all the relevant structural engineering criteria.

In my experience John is set apart from other same professionals by the fact that he is always contactable and available. It is never difficult to get John onto site even for an unscheduled inspection to address any urgent matter as well as the regular scheduled inspections. It is not uncommon for him to "drop in" if I have informed him of an unexpected situation which we may have attempted resolved on the phone.

John, I believe has a high regard for integrity, diligence and honesty. Attributes which are reflected in his work. I am please to recommend John and his engineering team to anyone seeking the services of a competent and courteous engineering firm.
